Fire Alarms

Summary/Purpose: This policy defines the expectations for students when fire alarms sound in residence halls. The policy gives suggestions for avoiding accidentally setting off alarms, and also describes the sanctions involved for anyone who intentionally sets off an alarm.

Fire alarms have been installed throughout the residence halls for your safety. In the event that a fire alarm should sound, you must leave the building immediately through the nearest exit. Residents are instructed to remain outside of the building until the Fire Department gives the order that the building is safe and residents may return to their rooms. Residents who remain in the residence halls after an alarm has sounded are subject to arrest and University judicial action. Additionally, any resident found responsible for a fire, intentional or accidental, may face arrest, University judicial action, loss of housing, and restitution. False fire alarms are a serious problem that can put everyone's safety at risk. The Fire Department responds to all fire alarms regardless of their origin.

Please be aware that smoking, cooking and aerosols sprayed near smoke detectors or sprinklers may result in an accidental false fire alarm. An intentional false fire alarm may result in arrest, University disciplinary action, and a loss of housing. A $100 fine will be assessed to anyone responsible for setting off a fire alarm, intentionally or accidentally. If no one person or persons are found responsible, the cost will be assessed to the entire floor or building as common area damage.

Each semester, one planned fire drill will be scheduled. It will be announced in advance and done to not only check the fire alarm system, but also to provide an opportunity for residents to practice evacuating the building. Any other alarm that sounds should be treated as a warning of a potentially life-threatening situation.

WHEN A FIRE ALARM SOUNDS:

1. Leave your room immediately, as required by state law.
2. Leave the wall or overhead light on.
3. Close the room door and lock it.
4. Walk quietly and quickly to the nearest exit. Do not use the elevators.
5. Once outside, go to the designated waiting area.
6. Remain outside until the signal is given by building staff to return to your room.

For your own protection obey all fire regulations. Failure to evacuate a hall when an alarm sounds represents grounds for disciplinary action. Residence Life staff and the University Police reserve the right to enter student rooms to locate the source of the problem and to ensure that everyone has evacuated the building.
